REV. GEORGE GALLOWAY WILL CONDUCT REVIVAL

Bernie Smith Wins Society Honors

Bernie Smith, student instructor in radio and a senior at Olivet Nazarene College, has been elected to honorary membership in the International Mark Twain society, it was announced today by the college. The Mark Twain award is an outstanding honor awarded to authors who have made notable contributions to literature. Its membership includes such famous names in the literary world as Winston Churchill, George Bernard Shaw, Jan C. Smuts, John Masefield, King Leopold of Belgium, Gen. Charles DeGaulle, H. C. Wells and the late David Lloyd George.

American representatives include Booth Tarkington, Robert Frost, Carl Sandburg, Willa Cather, Archibald Macleish, T. S. Eliot, Edgar Lee Masters, Gen. George C. Marshall, Eugene O'Neill and the late President Roosevelt and others.

Cyril Clemens is the president of the association. President Truman is honorary president; Clement Attlee, honorary chairman; the Archbishop of Canterbury, Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek and former President Herbert Hoover, honorary vice presidents.

Mr. Smith's letter of acceptance will be kept with a Mark Twain collection at the Jefferson Memorial in St. Louis, the same building which houses the famous Lindbergh trophies. Copies of his works, including his latest book, "Contemporary Conversations," will be included in the famous Mark Twain library maintained by the society at the Library of Congress in Washington.

Activities of the society are largely educational and include the publishing of the "Mark Twain Quarterly" and biographical and other works.

Each Nov. 30, Twain's birthday, the Mark Twain Memorial dinner is held in St. Louis. Speakers at this dinner have included many distinguished members of the society and other figures of national prominence.

VA Should Be Notified When Changing Schools

Veterans going to school under the provisions of the G-I Bill cannot transfer to another institution without prior approval from Veterans' Administration and still expect VA to pay tuition and subsistence, VA said.

Veterans who plan transfers and who still wish to receive educational benefits from the G-I Bill must contact their appropriate VA Regional Office or VA training officer in order to obtain approval for the change and to insure their continuance of the subsistence rolls.

VA emphasized that in most cases there is no objection to veterans changing schools. In order to prevent delays in payment of subsistence allowances and to eliminate unnecessary paper work, VA must be notified in advance of any contemplated change.

CHRISTIAN SERVICE TRAINING TO START THURSDAY

Rev. Ross Price stated that Mrs. Linford A. Marquart will hold a Christian Service Training course for training in work of the Summer Bible Schools. The course will last through twelve weeks, beginning Thursday night at 8:15 o'clock and meeting on Thursdays until the course is completed.

The registration fees are one

Lecture Series to Be Given Ministerial Students

Beginning February 16 and continuing through February 20, Dr. Charles A. Gibson will give for the sixth time his lectures entitled, "First things in the Ministry," to the ministerial body of Olivet College.

The series consist of ten lectures, which begin with the Spiritual nature of a call, its fourfold aspect, and definition of preaching as a distinct vocation. Lecture two deals primarily with the relation of the individual and the Church, while the third and fourth lectures give chief emphasis to the manual and the duty of the Church. The fifth and sixth portray the importance of sermon building, order of service and style of messages. Lecture seven is entitled "the first week in the pastorate," and the eighth is "social and spiritual balance—a key to success." Lecture nine treats some of the most practical phases of the minister's life, that of reception of members, Baptism and the Sacraments, weddings and funerals. Dr. Gibson's last lecture deals with farewell partings and the last sermon.

PARTY A LA CUPID

Large red hearts, cupids, refreshments and loads of fun were the gay combination present at the Valentine's Party sponsored women residents, who were the iation. This event was held in the Dining Hall on Saturday, February 14th. However this was no ordinary occasion, believe me. The women residence, who were the hostesses, forsook their everyday outfits, and donned their Sunday best—"The New Look" was omnipresent. The guests were members of the male population who had been lucky enough to be invited, and they were not to be outdone. The fellows were dressed in their best "same-as-every-year" suits*, but the girls apparently like them that way—so all went well.

The party began at 7:30 in the Dining Hall, festively decked in red and white crepe paper to help create the Valentine atmosphere. Alberta Wells was Mistress of Ceremonies and she added much to the entertainment and enjoyment of the evening. Although Valentine's Day is dedicated primarily to love and such, the Olivet women interspersed comedy and slap-stick along with the beauty of sentiment. Several novelty numbers, a pantomime skit, and group singing were just a few activities of the evening. But no party is complete without refreshments and the women residents proved this by serving tantalizing delicacies long to be remembered. Nevertheless all good things must come to an end, as the old maxim goes, "Better to have loved and lost than never to have loved at all," or, "Better to have missed the party? than not to have gone at all."

*Explanation—Styles come and styles change but men's suits are invariably the same.

dollar and will cover the course to be taught by Rev. Price sometime in March, if you register for this course.

The course that will be taught by Mrs. Marquart will prove invaluable to the people who intend to do church work with the young people, both in the future and the present.

Meeting to Last Through Feb. 29

REV. GEO. W. GALLOWAY

Perhaps the most vital phase of Christian education upon our campus has been, and is, especially emphasized during the annual fall and spring revival campaigns. The Redemptive agency, the Holy Spirit, has been manifest in an eminent nature, moving upon hearts, until young people impelled by the eternal love of Christ and actuated by His good will have turned from a life of sin's darkness to a life of glorious light.

On Sunday morning, February 22, the Rev. George Galloway will bring the first in a series of evangelistic messages. Rev. Galloway comes to us from the Western Ohio District and is one of the leading evangelists of our movement. He is an old-fashioned Holiness preacher and a firm believer in the complete remission of sins. We anticipate this series of meetings with a great volume of prayer ascending to the Throne of Grace. Oh, may every student and faculty member as well, who realizes the worth of intercessory prayer go on record as having been at their best in bringing the maxim of Divine Blessing upon Olivet Nazarene College.

It is precisely this burning flame of personal evangelism upon which our great movement was built and the same revival guiding spirit and a functioning spirit should always be the dominating over-all influence as a force in every department of the entire school.

Such a revival as this brings us into living fellowship with a glorious past by connecting our souls with the main great spiritual currents of the ages. While it is true that numbers is not the primary concern, yet Revival fruitage enables us to enter into the greatest joy of the ages. For after all, the fundamental joy of being a Christian is not just being good, but the fundamental joy of the Christian life is to stand alone as it were with Christ, with some soul who is burdened with the darkness of sin, and watch the glorious light of God's eternal presence break through.

Surely we can say with a rising anthem of praise and adoration that "It has been good to be in the house of the Lord" for therein hath God bestowed of His rich blessings to the needy hearts of many, many individuals. As a challenge, let us continue to carry this burning torch of personal evangelism by reaffirming our faith in Him, who was, who is and who is to be; the Changeless Great I Am, the Lord of Hosts.

Dr. Willingham Chapel Speaker

We were recently honored to have with us Dr. T. W. Willingham, director of the Nazarene Radio League, who spoke in chapel Tuesday, February 10.

After being introduced by Dean McClain, Dr. Willingham gave an informative talk on the progress of the Nazarene radio program, "Showers of Blessing," which began three years ago. The first attempt was made Jan. 1, 1946, using 49 radio stations. On Jan. 1, 1947, there were 65 stations in operation on January 1, 1948, 118 stations; and on Friday, the day Dr. Willingham left Kansas City, there were 128 radio stations regularly broadcasting the news of full salvation by means of "Showers of Blessing."

Some of these stations are in foreign countries. Ecuador has a strong one, and there are several in South Africa, where there are 11 foreign outlets. Also, Australia and New Zealand, Hawaii, and China have outlets, some of them on very important stations, with a huge coverage.

Of the four holiness radio programs on the air, our broadcast is the largest. It is the best received with radio men, has the largest coverage (75 million people are included in the primary coverage territory), and is in the best financial condition.

The Department is now being offered ten times as much air time as it has money to pay for. The Nazarene program could be heard over 500 stations if we only had the money to pay for this. Seventeen of the present stations have donated time for our broadcast. Recently, CBS invited us to prepare and broadcast a 30-minute program, at their expense. Since they have 386 stations outlets, it is easy to see what this could mean to our church.

Tentative plans are also being made for the introduction of a program (Nazarene) into Veteran Hospitals, Penitentiaries, and Old Folks' Home.

Board of Trustees Select Committee

The Board of Trustees met last Tuesday, February 3, to transact business for the college. A committee was appointed by the Board to work with the Township Committee and the college attorney to investigate the possibilities of purchasing a fire engine.

The nearest fire-fighting equipment is located in west Kankakee. An out-of-date volunteer system is the only source of protection in both Bradley and Bourbonnais.

Added housing facilities in the various sections of the campus increase the need for adequate equipment. A fire truck in this locality would be a great benefit both to the school and to the surrounding community.

Agreement on the problem of fire protection apparatus may make it possible for the equipment to be housed on the campus. The best protection from fire is prevention, but when prevention fails, proper machinery to handle conflagrations, large or small, is desirable.

He that does not reason is a slave.

Glimmerglass Announces Two New Features

With this issue the Glimmerglass is to have two new features. The first of these is the addition of Mr. Bernie Smith as Poetic Editor. The second addition is a Roving Reporter who will be asking questions of current interest from different people on the campus. The Roving Reporter will be conducted by Mr. Craig Baum.

Mr. Smith has, from time to time, written selections of poetry that the Glimmerglass will have the opportunity to print. He will be in charge of all poems that are received by the paper. The department for the selection of poetry for print has never been used, so we are departing on an adventure we think has a definite place in our paper. The appointment of Mr. Smith was wise, considering the qualifications that he possesses. Most of his work that will be used will have appeared at an earlier date in some of the Christian magazines that are familiar to all who read The Protestant Voice, The Christian Advocate, The War Cry and others. We are indeed fortunate to have Mr. Smith assist in preparing a "better Glimmerglass."

If you are approached by a black-haired, good-looking fellow, with a pencil and paper in his hand who asks what you think of this or that, you can just mark it down that you are being subjected to the "Roving Reporter." In order to better the human interest angle of the paper, we are instigating this idea not as a form of the Gallup Poll, but to find out what you think on current questions involving you. We are selecting the question to be asked and only ask for a statement from you. If at anytime you have a question you would like to have asked the students, just write it down on a piece of paper, put it in an envelope, address it to the Glimmerglass, and drop it in the local mail.

COMPREHENSIVE EXAMINATIONS FOR SENIORS

Comprehensive examinations will be given to all seniors between the sixth and tenth weeks of this semester. The final prerequisite for a degree from our college is a comprehensive test covering the student's major field of study. Each student will take a written examination approximately three hours in length and a one hour oral examination.

The purpose of "comps" is to enable the student to clarify his materials of study and show the relationship between the courses he has studied. Testing devices of this kind make possible an appraisal of the pupil's general knowledge of the field in which he is primarily interested, and of how well he can apply fundamental principles to practical situations.

The results of the examinations are announced as passed with high honors, passed with honors, satisfactory, or failed.

If a student has two majors in his curriculum, he may take his choice as to which study he will concentrate upon for this examination.

A student is a guy who goes to college to prepare himself for a career, so he can tell people what kind of work he is out of.

Editorial

In the few games that the "O" Club has played this year, I have noticed a lack of support. In fact one might even call it unsportsmanship criticism. Instead of going to the gymnasium to yell for our team we go just because we happened to have nothing better to do. That would be all right if we just sat there, but some of us seem to get a certain amount of pleasure out of going to the games and yelling with all we are worth for the visiting team.

In the game with Flint Church, there were several people who seemed to feel that the trip down here from Flint would be in vain if the Flint people were to go back to their homes defeated. It attracts attention when an Olivetian stands up and makes a spectacle of himself by supporting the opposition. Some people's method of being outstanding is just getting other people to notice them. There are many ways which are more acceptable to make oneself outstanding, and one of these is not making a fool of oneself.

Another bad habit which we have acquired lately is that of showing our dismay at a low score or inappropriate playing by yelling discouraging remarks instead of getting behind the team as a whole and giving them some positive encouragement. This goes for our support of players as well. If a player happens to make one or two mistakes we immediately say that he and his attempts are no good. Instead, why don't we boost him a little? There's a phrase that goes something like this, "boost a man when he is having trouble instead of kicking him." That would fit occasions like this.

There are also, in this class of non-supporters of Olivet, some who, when these visiting teams come to Olivet, will put on one of the visiting team's uniforms and run out on the floor. It always makes me feel that those people think they can play basketball and, because they aren't used on the school teams, will just show every one here that they have been slighted and that some one is overlooking a mighty good player. Surprisingly enough, the coaches here are right, and those would-be stars aren't in actuality what they think themselves to be. Sure, if my church brought a team here to play, I would like to see them win, but I doubt that I would play against my own school to see that win accomplished.

One little rule which I was taught, "when in Rome, do as the Romans do." That applies at Olivet as well as Rome.

Religion

... on the Campus

(Contributed by Dr. C. E. Demaray, February 18, 1948)

In a group as large as that which frequents the campus of Olivet Nazarene College it is to be expected that, in spite of the teaching that predominates in the many religious services and the spirit that so constantly pervades the Prayer Chapel, many varieties of religion will be observed; and the bystander may be considerably confused as to the religion which we, as a college, represent.

Approaching the subject thus critically we need, perhaps, to define our concept of religion and to discover the pattern which we are at least professing to follow. I am sure that we will all agree that our conception of religion, so far as we have one, must be derived from the Book which is our sole guide to religious truth, and that our pattern in the religious life is to be found in Jesus Christ, the One Person whom we adore as Savior, Lord, and King of our lives. The Bible gives us a simple but practical definition of religion in the Epistle of James (1:27): "Pure religion and undefiled before our God and Father is this, to visit the fatherless and widows in their affliction, and to keep oneself unspotted from the world." The two elements of true religion thus portrayed are the same as frequently illustrated in the teachings of Jesus and perfectly exemplified in His life on earth, viz., love toward God and man, and holiness of heart and life.

This is the religion that we subscribe to, but do we exemplify it in our lives? We firmly believe that if Olivet students and faculty were compared with any similar group, the advantage would be in their favor; yet we dare not be too confident of ourselves, and by observation we find all too many instances of failure to measure up. It is not enough to take a prominent part in the student prayer meeting or give a glowing witness in the mid-week service, if we cannot go out and live the life that will convince our comrades that we have the Spirit of Christ down deep in our hearts. Courtesy, friendliness, a desire to win even a potential enemy to Christ through a loving word or an act of kindness, and care exercised in protecting the reputation of another who is slandered in one's presence, are all parts of pure religion in the sense that James uses the term. Spirituality, which we all desire, and which may be called the devotional aspect of religion, must be upheld by a consistent life of holiness.

As we come up to the revival services that represent a high point in the religious life of our college, let us seek to advance the cause of Christ among us, not only through aggressive evangelism but through lives that are kept "unspotted from the world."

THE NEW LOOK

Subtitled: She had the new look and he longed for the old life.

To be or not to be in fashion, that is the question. Whether tis nobler in the mind to suffer the slings and arrows of outrageous criticism and wear 'em longer, or to take arms against the fad and walk without tramping on your own trappings. Yes, to be in fashion is a far more serious choice, psychologically, than just what meets the men's eye.

All effort on my part to dress in any semblance of the latest fashion is about as hopeless as a dog chasing his own tail. I have all sympathy for any ambitious gal who tries to stay in style these days. First she lives on r-y-krisp and water, just like solitary confinement, to slim down and when she begins to resemble a Ticonderoga pencil the fashion editors come out with padded hips. And as surely as she stocks up in new skirts those awful people say, put 'em lower, about twelve inches from the gutter. It's bad enough on our budget having to buy new longer duds, but it's worse when they cover up your best assets. Boy, those new rounded shoulders give the after-fight shoulder droop of Joe Louis in his last one.

But you join the Little-Below-the-Knee Club and have a bale or more of cotton padding taken out of your shoulders and put in your jacket hips. It gives you that middle age sag but you're in style.

Yah, everything is getting longer, including our faces. The current masculine comment is as follows: "Well, the shorter they are the longer we look." Draw your own conclusions, sisters. And another, "They're bad investment... don't draw much interest" and "They're below see level." Then one ex-sailor said "They're 4 o' That's magnetic isn't it."

Of course other arts have the new look too. I saw the new look in painting recently. It was a work done in oils and labelled, "Hot worm coming out of a baked apple."

This new look is the most drastic change since the Renaissance... (I think that's a river 'cause it ran through Italy, Germany, and France during the Middle Ages.) The lowered hemline has been the despair of many a student of feminine knee-atomy, to say nothing of the padded chassis to create delusions of grandeur.

But coming back to this subject of dress, I'm beginning to figure out why we girls wear such outrageous products of creators' minds and the only reasonable explanation I can give you is that a sensible girl is not so sensible as she looks because a sensible girl has more

What Do You Think ...

By CRAIG BAUM

(Editor's note) This is the first in a series of articles that will appear in each issue of the Glimmerglass, for the remainder of the school year. The questions will be asked of the people that we think are representative of the personnel on campus. These are all direct quotations of the people.

The question asked this time was, "What do you think should be our stand in regard to United Military Training?" United Military Training will be referred to as U. M. T. in the below answers.

Miss Ruth Gilley—Librarian—I do not believe it is necessary for the sake of preparedness. However, if it is handled in a proper manner, which can't be guaranteed, it would be exceptionally good for America's youth. I believe if this idea is enforced, the youth should not be taken too young. They should have a chance to finish high school and should not be taken while in the process of being educated.

Marsh McGuire—Michigan Junior—To come right out and say that there should or should not be U.M.T. without giving consideration to the advantages and disadvantages of both sides, would be foolish. I do believe that if the next war is to be as technological as they claim it will be, a program which merely builds strong bodies and discipline will not answer the need. Economically speaking, it is unsound; due to the apparent success of an Aid to Europe Plan, which will undoubtedly draw financial resources, almost more than we can take. It would cost in the millions just to get the program underway with proper facilities, etc. I do believe that U.M.T. will develop into a good political issue, and will be forgotten as soon as this election year is over.

Clayton Bailey—Veteran Iowa Sophomore—In view of the progress of war tactics, a U.M.T. would be out of date, for the technical warfare and weapons that would be used in future wars would not be brought out in the open for just mere training purposes. Then, on the other hand, the principle of "we trust you, but just in case" always leaves a two-faced policy and can only end in trouble, for the holder.

CHILD-LIKE FAITH

I'm not afraid, the small boy said,
Of this long ocean trip.
Because, you see, my Daddy is
The Captain of this ship.

I'm not afraid of storms that blow
Across the ocean wide;
'Cause I just know my Daddy
Will reach the other side.

Why, if I saw the ocean waves
A hundred feet in air,
I wouldn't be a-scared at all
As long as Daddy's there.

And if it rained a thousand days,
And thunder loud did roar;
I wouldn't be concerned at all—
Daddy will reach the shore.

And if this ship is tossed about,
Why, it won't bother me;
We'll make the journey safe, because
My Daddy knows the sea.

No matter then how rough may be,
I know we'll stay afloat;
So don't you worry, mister,
My Daddy runs this boat.

God give us simple child-like faith,
To trust thy Mystic Realm;
To know the Ship of Life is safe,
If you are at the helm.

—BERNIE SMITH
(From The Christian Advocate)

Leap Year's in full swing and youse guys are stuck with it, so might as well take advantage of it, and stir up a little dirt for P.I. at the same time. Like, for instance—Jesse Schnell and Jeanne Wilson have been seen together quite a bit recently. We don't know what goes, so if you want any further info—you can ask 'em.

Dashed out of the door the other day and who should I knock down, but Phyllis Hendricker and Ben Crocker. Hmmm! The way it looks from where we're sitting, Woody Leezer hasn't wasted any time since Betty Birdell hit campus, either.

Seems as though Open House provided its characters as do most events at O.N.C. There was Joe Niccum (we know this is the umpteenth time Joe's name has appeared here, but when anyone works as hard as he does to make the col'm, who are we to spoil his fun.) One thing sure, Joe won't have to buy any groceries for a month—the girls dorm was well supplied with food and there weren't any "don't touch" or "hands off" signs around.

Not only were the fellows at the White House showing something new in wallpaper this season (scotch plaid), but also in 'dainty wearing apparel'. Don't worry, fellas, we won't carry tales outa school.

Jewel Britton thinks most of the Olivet guys are "drips"—those were her very words, so don't throw any rocks our way.

Lois Gibson and Chuck Beatty are obviously a twosome these days. We don't have anything in writing to that effect, but appearances aren't always deceiving.

Don't know what it is, but Rosie Burnett says those Southern Ohio fellas have it. At least, all we hear is chit-chat about a certain "Bill" at V.P.I. (Still don't know what it stands for)

Gossip has it that Clayton Bailey has a not-so-secret admirer—but you don't need to worry, Pauline Alexander—horses couldn't drag it out of us.

Elaine Gardner and Maudie Huston are favorite basketball widows. Have you noticed those pained looks of agony everytime Leo or Bobby take a tumble.

Donita Von Seggen has been spending most of her time parking these days. Dave Ehrin's motto is "drop 'em like a hot potato." Zat so, Juana?

Seems like every time the "Ole Flivver" (driven by none other than Raymond Dafoe & Co.) stops in front of the dorm, it causes a riot. All the ex-girlfriends make a mad dash to their windows to see who 'tis this time.

'Nuther big item is the Naomi Atkinson, Dick Rowe, Marjorie Hughes, Bob Knowles foursome. You didn't think we'd pass that up, did you?

Guess the "share the man plan" has its place in O.N.C. society—anyway, that's what Joan Clester's friends say. Looks like every time that blond from St. Anne with the snazzy car comes to take her out to dinner, all her friends invite themselves along—for the ride?

We just knew Jim Conrad and Betty Brown would help fill up space. This is the don't-know-which-teenth time they've said "adieu" and again Jim confirms he isn't broken hearted.

That's all for now, kids. Plant ya now, dig ya later.

The Art of Opening A Conversation

Opening a conversation is really the hardest part. It may best be studied in the setting and surrounding of the Evening Reception, where people stand upright and agonize, balancing a dish of ice-cream. Here conversation reaches its highest pitch of social importance. One must talk or die. Something may be done to stave it off a little by vigorous eating. But the food at such affairs is limited. There comes a point when it is absolutely necessary to say something.

The beginning, as I say, is the hardest problem. Other communities solve it better than we do. In China, conversation between strangers after introduction is always opened by the question, "And how old are you?" This strikes me as singularly apt and sensible. Here is the one thing that is common ground between any two people, high or low, rich or poor—how far are you on your pilgrimage in life?

Compare with the Chinese method the grim, but very significant, formula that is employed in the exercise yards of our penitentiaries. "What have you brought?" asks the San Quentin or Sing Sing convict of the new arrival, meaning, "And how long is your sentence?" There is the same human touch about this, the same common ground of interest, as in the Chinese formula.

But in our polite society we have as yet found no better method than beginning with a sort of medical diagnosis—"How do you do?" This admits of no answer. Convention forbids us to reply in detail that we are feeling if anything slightly lower than last week, but that though our temperature has risen from ninety-one-fifty to ninety-one-seventy-five, our respiration is still normal.

Still worse is the weather as an opening topic. For it either begins and ends as abruptly as the medical diagnosis or it leads the two talkers on into a long and miserable discussion of the weather of yesterday, of the day before yesterday, of last month, of last year and the last fifty years.

Let one beware, however, of a conversation that begins too easily. This can be seen at any evening reception, as when the hostess introduces two people who are supposed to have some special link to unite them at one with an instantaneous snap, as when for instance, they both come from the same town.

Let me introduce Mr. Sedley," says the hostess. "I think you and Mr. Sedley are from the same town, Miss Smiles. Miss Smiles, Mr. Sedley."

Off they go at a gallop. "I'm so delighted to meet you," says Mr. Sedley. "It's good to hear somebody who comes from our little town." If he's a rollicking humorist, Mr. Sedley calls it his little old "burg."

"Oh, yes," answers Miss Smiles. "I'm from Winnipeg, too. I was so anxious to meet you to ask you if you knew the McGowans. They're my greatest friends at home."

"The—who?" asks Mr. Sedley. "The McGowans—on Selkirk Avenue."

"No—o, I don't think I do. I know the Prices on Selkirk Avenue. Of course you know them."

"The Prices? No. I don't believe I do—I don't think I ever heard of the Prices. You don't mean the Pearsons? I know them very well."

"No, I don't know the Pearsons? The Prices live just near the reservoir."

"No, then I'm sure I don't know them. The Pearsons live close to the college."

"Close to the college? Is it near the William Kennedy's?"

This is the way the conversation goes for ten minutes. Both Sedley and Miss Smiles are getting desperate. Their faces are fixed. Their sentences are reduced to—

"Do you know the Petersons?"

"No. Do you know the Apple-

sense than to look sensible. Now that's got a lot of sense in it.

I think the most drastic mode out is that new ballerina skirt. They're the things that look like a tarpaulin with a hole in the top. I had one, but my little brother thought it was a tent and he pitched it. The latest coats are a sure double of something the bat man wears, yards of surplus where most of us need it. Of course they're a bit loud but they can be worn with mufflers.

Now, remember fellows, don't tell a girl her slip is showing, especially if what's showing is eye-catching. That's just a result of the petticoat overrunning the country. On a windy day a girl doesn't have to hold her skirts with one hand and her hat with the other. She can twirl her bubble gum or fish for a bus chip in complete comfort.

Say have you seen the new spring hats? I got a peek at a Hattie Carnegie creation called the "Lamp Lighter." It's a little man standing on a flat crown and holding a candle on the end of a pole. When you pull a string he holds his flame up to the street light. If after your third try the lamp doesn't light he just stands and shrugs his shoulders. No, you don't have to be a Hattie Carnegie to whip up your own creation in hats. Just raid your mother's vegetable compartment, combine the green vegetables and a few carrots with the outer layer of feathers from any old bird, borrow the last two square feet of chicken wire your father was saving for his turtle cage, put them all together they spell "new-look."

So you femme fatales, get yourself some mad plaid, violent violet velvet, siren hussy reds, and let 'em drag down and out . . . you'll be the same way, but in style . . . and out of circulation probably. And if the men don't go for them who cares . . . you don't dress to please the men . . . just to catch 'em.

bys?"

"No. Do you know the Willie Johnsons?"

"No."

Then at last comes a rift in the clouds. One of them happens to mention Beverly Dixon. The other is able to cry exultingly—

Beverly Dixon? Oh, yes, rather. At least, I don't know him, but I used often to hear the Applebys speak of him."

And the other exclaims with equal delight—"I don't know him very well either, but I used to hear the Willie Johnsons talk about him all the time."

They are saved. Half an hour after they are still standing there talking of Beverly Dixon.

An equally unsuccessful type of conversation, often at receptions, is one in which one of the two parties to it is too surly, too stupid, or too self-important, and too rich to talk, and the other labors in vain.

Mr. Grunt, capitalist, is approached by a willowy lady:

"Oh, Mr. Grunt," she is saying, "how interesting it must be in your place. Our hostess was telling me that you own practically all the shoe-making machinery factories east of Pennsylvania."

"Honk," says Mr. Grunt.

"Shoe-making machinery must be absolutely fascinating, is it not?"

"Honk," says Mr. Grunt.

"I should love so much to see one of your factories. They must be so interesting."

"Honk," says Mr. Grunt.

Then he turns and moves away.

Into his little piggy eyes has come a fear that the lady is going to ask him to subscribe for something, or wants his name on a board of directors. So he leaves her. Yet if he had known it she is probably as rich as he is, or richer, and hasn't the faintest interest in his factories and never intends to go near one. Only she is fit to move and converse in polite society and Mr. Grunt is not.

Texas Sophomore—The best way to have one of your fellowmen not trust you and not have faith in you is to show him that you do not trust him or have any faith in him. So it is in this family of nations. A good way for us to have the rest of the world distrust us is to distrust them, and that is exactly what we the U. S. would be doing if we started peace-time U.M.T. It would prove to the other nations of the world that we trusted no one and this would engender distrust among all the nations. The world does not need any more distrust than it now has. It needs love, faith, and respect for others.

Hugh Voss — Veteran Iowa Sophomore—The world today is in a condition that merits the attention of every person, and we can all do something to make it a better place to live by the use of common sense and Christian fellowship. The experts say the next war will be purely an atomic war. This may or may not be true. We can't let our military system become again as it was before the war; only a handful of trained men. We need an army to prevent further war. We should also endeavor to spread the gospel to all people by the use of radio and missionaries. With God in men's hearts this would then make war unnecessary.

JESSE (JAY) PITTS

Jesse (Jay) Pitts embarked upon his career in Hoosier state 'way back in October of 1926. One of Olivet's happily married men, Jay is also one of those enviable people with only a few more weeks between him and his graduation. He spends a considerable amount of time now in the high school—teaching speech. Jay is in charge of making records for the radio station on campus. He is also business manager of the Glimmerglass. A member of Vikings for the past two years, he likes to sing and also likes to play the piano for his own enjoyment. (He's modest) A speech major, Jay is a prominent member of the Debate squad. Most of us have swooned to his voice on the Themes for Dreams radio program over WONC. Jay's hobby is a good one—books. (He's a member of English Guild) Next to Char, he likes classical music best. In the more down-to-earth department, he dotes on steak and french fries. He definitely doesn't like the Andrews Sisters (as singers, that is.) Jay's education was furthered while he was in the Navy, as he was in the V-12, stationed at DePaul University. His next step will be to get his Master's in Education at Indiana University next year, where he and his femme will make their residence in a trailer. After this, Jay wants to teach speech, and perhaps someday become a high school principal.

RUTH CAILEY

Ruth Cailey, born twenty-two years ago in Columbus, Ohio declares that only children are not always spoiled. A senior this year, Ruth is a business major, with honor point average anyone would be proud of. Being the ambitious type, she has a triple minor—Economics, Spanish, and Education. Her main occupation at present is the school year book, of which she is the editor, and a very efficient one. Along with this duty, which keeps her in the Aurora office from 8:00 a.m. till 11:30 p.m. daily, (at least it's almost that bad) Ruth is the secretary-treasurer of the Commerce Club—a position which she has filled for the past four years. At present she is a member of F.T.A. A member of Forensic in past years, she brought home the laurals for the women's debate squad last year. She can also make the piano talk. Last year she was secretary of the Junior class and Assistant editor of the Glimmerglass. Her title to Who's Who is certainly well-earned. Ruth's hobbies are collecting poetry, and, of course, giraffes. (she likes the latter because they're the only animals that can't talk back.) Among her likes is chocolate ice cream. Inconsistency is the thing she dislikes most. Although she isn't certain yet about what she wants to do in the future, we predict for her a promising one.

KRABILL'S KORNER

The Spartan men kept alive their hopes for a share of the basketball crown by overcoming the Indians in a closely contested battle Friday night, Feb. 6. It was one of the most exciting games of the season and the green and white were forced to "go all out" before subduing the fighting Redskins. The Spartans opened the scoring with a free throw by Clack. However, the Indians quickly took over and moved ahead to a 9-5 lead at the end of the quarter. As the second quarter got under way, the tempo of the game increased and it soon developed into a red hot skirmish. The Indians managed to maintain a slight half-time lead, 20-18.

The Spartans dumped in two quick baskets at the start of the second half to take the lead, a lead which they never relinquished. Although the red and white kept close on their heels, the men from Spartans withstood each assault and came out victorious, 42-36. Bob Clack was the spark of the Spartan team, pouring in 21 points. Meanwhile, Chuck Beatty collected 11 points to lead the Indians.

It looks as if the Indians may run away with the basketball championship in class "B" competition. They have come through five encounters thus far without a defeat. The Spartans and Trojans are tied for second place, having broken even in their two meetings.

In class "C" competition, the Spartans are sitting on top of the heap, with three victories in as many starts. The Indians have broken even in four games, and the Trojans have failed to register a win in three attempts.

From all appearances, the race for the individual scoring championship in the society league may turn into quite a battle. At the present time there are five contenders grouped at the top. All within a margin of 12 points. Clack of the Spartans is leading the pack with a total of 71 points. Applegate is in second place with 65 counters and Trimble and Gale follow with 55 and 54, respectively. The remaining games should offer plenty of excitement before the crown is won.

SWIMMING POOL IS OPEN TO ALL

Do you realize that Olivet is the proud possessor of one of the finest swimming pools in the State of Illinois, that the average temperature of the water of the pool last week was 82, that the temperature of the air of the area was 81, that the pool is open to every one for a free swim, that we are going to have competitive society swimming after basketball season, that you may be an Eleanor Holmes or a Johnny Weismuller undiscovered? The answer to all these questions is "yes." As for the last two, that depends on your ability and of course your sex.

Because of the installation of the new boilers last semester, conditions at the pool were definitely adverse at least for an enjoyable time of swimming. But now that all that is taken care of, conditions have improved and the pool is operating better than ever.

Under the present arrangement women may swim the ninth hour on Mondays and Wednesdays, as well as at 7:00 o'clock on Saturday nights. The pool is open for men at 3:45 in the afternoons on Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Fridays, also Saturday evenings at 8:30 o'clock.

This year with the enlarged enrollment and the greater number of students using the gymnasium and because of the varied interests of the students, Dr. Jones is desirous of starting competitive swimming for both men and the women. This will be open to all who are able to keep their heads above the water for at least twenty seconds. Even if you can't swim you can come over and splash around.

Flint Edges Out "O" Club

A fighting team from Flint First Church paid a cage visit to the Olivet gym Saturday night, Feb. 7 and took home a hard earned 39-37 victory over the Olivet cagers. This game proved to be one of the most interesting of the season as the lead see-sawed back and forth throughout the game. The end of the first quarter saw Flint holding a 11-10 lead. However the "O" club with John Strahl leading the way, came back strong in the second quarter to lead at half time 24-20. The Flint team came surging back in the third quarter led by Paul Coleman, son of the pastor and the center, Potter, while the Olivet attack seemed to bog down. Flint enjoyed a 32-29 at the three quarter mark and was never headed. The Olivet boys tried valiantly but in vain to steal the ball in the last minute and get the all important two pointer which would send the game into overtime.

The Flint team was a much improved team over the one which the "O" club defeated earlier in the season at Flint, 58-26. John Strahl again led the way in the "O" club scoring with 13 counters. Beatty and Clack were next in line with 7 points each. Paul Coleman paced the visitors with 11, while his teammates Potter and Brandt tallied 7 each.

TROJAN WOMEN UPSET INDIANS

With superior defense work and excellent offense work the Trojan girls handed the Indian girls their first defeat of the season. Von Seggen led her teammates in scoring by sinking nine field goals and one free throw to rack up 19 points. Johnson, leading the Indians, scored a total of 14 points, trying valiantly to catch up with the flying Trojans. But the Trojans were determined to win and kept fighting right up to the last second. At the end of the third quarter the score was 27-17 with the Trojans leading, and in the third quarter the Trojans scored only 3 points to the Indians 9 making the final score 30-26. The game was one of the best of the season with Rodenburg, Abernathy, and Rithaler doing some of the best defense work ever shown here at Olivet. Sledd tried to work in a little football but discovered that it wasn't the right kind of defense for a basketball floor. We were sorry to see the Indians break their winning streak, but glad to see the Trojans play such outstanding basketball.

SPARTANS WIN OVER TROJANS

The men of Sparta made it three in a row Friday night by defeating the men of Troy, by the score of 42-28. The game was a nip and tuck affair until the second half when the Spartans began to have better luck in putting the sphere through the hoop. "Butch" Ward kept the Trojans in the scoring column the first half by collecting nine points the first quarter; however he cooled off the second quarter and failed to score in the remaining game.

The Spartan's passing seemed to have the Trojan's 'zone defense' extremely busy during most of the game. It was for this reason that the Spartans looked the best they have all year. The game was an improvement even over the last week's Indian-Spartan battle.

Bob Clack was high point man for the evening with 16, while John Jones was next highest with 10. Ward was high for the Trojans and Laymon was second with 7; However the outstanding game of the evening was played by Leo Baugus, Spartan guard, who held Applegate of the Trojans to only three points. Going into the last night's game Applegate was high point man for the college, but Leo with a 'never take your eyes off him' attitude, never did.

The half-time score was 19-17, Spartans.

Scoring is as follows:

Trojans	fg	ft	tp	pf
Applegate, f	1	1	3	2
Hazelwood, f	2	0	4	2
Lamons, c	3	1	7	2
Ward, g	4	1	9	3

PASEDENA TAKES SERIES AT NAMPA

Students here were informed that Pasadena defeated Nampa two games in a three game series, at Nampa. The scores of the games are as follows: NNC, 52-48; PC, 52-43; PC, 42-37. Cramer was the outstanding scorer for Nampa, with an average of 14 points. Cartwright was the outstanding Pasadena player.

INDIANS IN FIRST PLACE IN WOMEN'S BASKETBALL

The Indians lost their first game of the season, but still retained leadership in the women's division of Dr. Nasismith's great game, basketball. This makes the Indians with 4 wins, one defeat; Trojans 2 wins, 3 losses; Spartans 1 win, 3 losses.

The games have proven that the girl's basketball can be interesting and has a shown definite improvement over previous years. This better type of basketball that the girls are displaying comes from a more complete sports program for the girls. We are looking forward to still more improvements in the women's sports.

Another reason for the increased interest in the women's basketball is the keen interest in the individual scoring. High scoring honors are presently held by Mary Johnson of the Indians, but Von Seggen's 19 points in the last game moved her from fifth place in scoring, to second. The girl's scoring should turn out to be a very interesting event.

The scoring is as follows: Mary Johnson (Indians) 65; Donita Von Seggen (Trojans) 56; Avis Harshman (Spartans) 53; Lois Zackmire (Indians) 47; Dwan Trimble (Trojans) 44.

The game Feb. 6, was between the Spartans and the Indians, the Spartans gave the Indians quite a tussle and for a while it looked as if the Indians might suffer their first defeat. But the Indians came through in the last two minutes, making the final score 26-21. Katrine Kennedy totaled the most points for the Indians and tied with Avis Harshman of the Spartans for high point honors.

Girls Sports Column

By JAUNICE LEHMAN

Hmmm, well here I sit with pencil in hand, trying to write this first in the series of columns on girls' sports here at Olivet. Seems the men still hang onto the opinion that whatever they do should overshadow our few meager accomplishments (this is for the ego of the male population only) but here the women come into their own.

With the end of the basketball season now in sight we find the Indians leading with four wins while the Trojans and Spartans each have one contest to their credit. In the first game between the Spartans and the Trojans, way back in first semester, the Spartans topped the Trojans 29-28, but in the second game the Trojans crushed the girls in green 48 to 22. The next game will definitely be the deciding factor between the two teams.

After amassing all the 'rhythmic my first grade teacher taught me, I found that Avis Harshman, that hard hitting Spartan forward sent the ball through the hoop enough times to make her total score for the season 53 points. Indian coach, Mary Johnson, followed closely with 51 for the season. At the head of the Trojan team we find Dwan Trimble with 41. The last games, however, can change them completely.

In the last few games two freshmen have come into the spotlight with some mighty good basketball technique — Katrine Kennedy, Indian, who calmly sank 13 points in the Indians' last game and Shirley Abernathy, the Trojan forward who turned guard and did a splendid job of it.

Oh yes, and by the bye gals... there is free swimming on Mondays and Wednesdays the ninth period... the gym is open for all on Saturday nights when there aren't any games on—the fellows have no monopoly... table tennis tournaments will be held in late March or early April so sharpen up on that serve. Be seein' you at the gym!
